Thinking of expanding your business into the United States, or have you already expanded? Have you moved to or from a country for employment reasons? Do you manage employees who are moving throughout the world? Not sure how tax compliance requirements and tax procedures compare from country to country?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, then we think you'll find this session informative and helpful. This event will be hosted by Deloitte and will showcase two tax professionals with close to 40 years of combined tax and consulting experience. Focus will be on common tax pitfalls of businesses and individuals with dual financial obligations in both Europe and the United States.

Networking, cocktails, and light hors d'oeuvres will follow.

This event is sponsored by Deloitte

About the presenters:

Amelia Chin F.CCA., C.A(TT), E.A

Amelia has 22 years of experience in public accounting and 15 years of professional experience with Deloitte's Global Employer Services group, providing expatriate tax services including: tax planning and consulting, policy development, tax compliance and overall global coordination of expatriate programs. As part of Deloitte Canada she worked with multi-national companies to mitigate US-Canada cross border tax risk as well as address global tax issues for expatriate assignees. Amelia has worked in Canada, India, Belgium and the Caribbean.

Andreas Maywald

In addition to being a frequent lecturer on tax matters and a contributor to many German tax publications, Andreas is a lawyer and certified tax advisor who has worked at Deloitte for over 13 years. Prior to working for Deloitte Germany and then becoming the leader of the German Tax Desk in Deloitte's International Tax program, Andreas worked for the German tax administration. Andreas has extensive experience both in advising international clients wishing to invest into Germany and in advising German-based multinationals doing business outside Germany.
